WASHINGTON CROSSING, PA – The David Library of the American Revolution’s fall lecture series will conclude on Thursday, December 3 with a lecture by Colin G. Calloway, a leading scholar of Native American history. The lecture, titled, “The Indian World of George Washington and the ‘Other Revolution,’” will be presented admission free at the David Library, 1201 River Road, Washington Crossing, at 7:30 PM. Reservations are required and can be made by calling 215-493-6776 ext. 100, or by sending an email to rsvp@dlar.org.

Professor Calloway was born in England received his B.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Leeds. He was President of the American Society for Ethnohistory in 2007 and 2008. He has been given awards by the Missisquoi Nation of Abenakis and the Native American Students at Dartmouth, and received an honorary doctorate from the University of Lucerne, Switzerland in 2014. He was awarded a fellowship by the David Library of the American Revolution in 1989.

The David Library of the American Revolution is a non-profit organization dedicated to the study of American History, 1750-1800. In addition to making its unparalleled collection of primary source materials available to researchers, DLAR offers educational programs, including lectures by leading scholars such as Colin G. Calloway, to the general public.

###